

Sedalians Support Eagleton After His Ouster From 1972 Ticket

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The pendulum of opinion among Sedalians interviewed Tuesday swung heavily in favor of Missouri Senator Thomas Eagleton following his removal Monday night from the Democratic Presidential ticket.

James Buckley, Pettis County Democratic chairman and a delegate to the Democratic Convention, expressed his disapproval, stating he felt George McGovern was unduly influenced.

"I think if he had made the decision based solely on his own thoughts, Tom would have stayed on," Buckley said. "I think it was ill advised for the Democratic national chairman to say it would be noble for Eagleton to step down. He was McGovern's chosen nominee and the party officials should have respected his wishes."

Buckley said he was in contact with Eagleton's office Monday night during the session between the Senator and McGovern in which the decision was made to remove him.

"They were apprehensive, as we all were and just as much in the dark as to the outcome as we were," He said he has not talked to Eagleton since the decision was made.

When asked if he felt the recent controversy regarding Eagleton's medical history would damage his future political career in Missouri, Buckley said, "I don't think it will hurt him." Eagleton is up for re-election in 1974.

Buckley also commented on what he considered the "irresponsibility" of columnist Jack Anderson, who wrote that photostatic copies of drunk driving traffic violations attested to Eagleton's instability. Anderson later admitted he had never seen the documents and Tuesday announced an unqualified retraction of his story.

Buckley strongly indicated his displeasure with True Davis, Washington banker and an opponent of Eagleton in the 1968 Democratic Senatorial primary, who said he released the information to Anderson.

"That just shows once again the type of person True Davis is," Buckley said.

Craig Cassing, 2504 Dennis Road, agreed "it was a sad commentary in this age of advanced medicine and sophistication that the people would let this upset them. If a man can't run for office without having this happen to him, it's a sorry state."

In the opinion of James Murphy, 650 East 10th, "The Democrats dropped the wrong man." Speaking of the now-defunct McGovern-Eagleton ticket, Murphy said

"Missouri was going to be close the way it was ... now I'm afraid Nixon would be a shoe-in for reelection. I'd bet a million dollars on it."

One man, requesting anonymity, disagreed with Buckley, Cassing and Murphy in feeling that Eagleton's removal from the national spotlight will "definitely hurt his chances for reelection."

He said that he had planned on voting Democratic in the fall, despite reservations about McGovern. Now, he says, he probably won't.

"Sunday, McGovern said he was behind Eagleton 1,000 per cent," he said. "If this is how he shows it, I'd hate to have him, against me."

"I think they wanted someone else besides Eagleton all along and merely used the allegations by Anderson as a convenient excuse," he continued.

Jim Reed, 900 South Harrison, said he thought "it was the only thing McGovern could do" under the circumstances. Regarding Eagleton's political future, Reed said "he's still sound in Missouri."

Mrs. Naomi Madden, Route 4, called McGovern's decision "a regrettable one. I feel sorry for Eagleton ... There's

Eagleton Drops Out

"... personal feelings secondary..." "I support George McGovern..." "I'm going to run for the Senate..." "I therefore resign..."

On Eagleton Matter

Hearnes, Houtchens Are Upset

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today he would continue to support the national Democratic ticket, but said he thought Tom Eagleton's withdrawal is "a severe blow" for Missouri and for the national campaign.

Hearnes, who opposed the nomination drive of George McGovern at Miami Beach, said he had not made up his mind whether he would go to Washington as a national committeeman and help pick another vice presidential candidate.

Sen. Eagleton, on the heels of a warm reception in Missouri during the weekend, met Monday night with McGovern to discuss the controversy over Eagleton's psychiatric treatment and a report by columnist Jack Anderson that Eagleton had been charged with drunken driving 10 years ago.

Anderson, who had not showed evidence to substantiate his report, apologized.

Hearnes, a long-time friend of Eagleton, said he was worried because "I don't see anybody who is black" on the list of prospective replacements, and wasn't sure it was a representative list.

"The man on the street who might not have supported McGovern stood behind Eagleton," the governor said, "but some other people left the boat rather early."

Eagleton's withdrawal, Hearnes said, will cause "great damage" to the Democrats, but he would not predict that President Nixon would carry Missouri in November.

The withdrawal is "sad for Missouri because we know he offered a great potential as a possible vice president; sad for the nation because its citizens have been denied that potential service," Hearnes said.

Eagleton, Hearnes said, "played the part of a good soldier," in stepping down, and Hearnes predicted Eagleton would be re-elected to the Senate two years from now.

"I think this is the end of McGovern's credibility," said Delton Houtchens, state party chairman. "As far as I'm concerned McGovern and Jean Westwood (new national chairmanwoman) can take care of their own problems in Missouri."

"My money will not go to them nor will my time and effort."

Houtchens said McGovern probably will get very little support in Missouri, which has 17 electoral votes. About 65 per cent of the state's population of 4½ million are Democrats.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., today formally resigned as the Democratic party's nominee for vice president, saying his candidacy has apparently caused deep divisions in an already divided party.

In a letter to the party chairman, Mrs. Jean Westwood, Eagleton said the decision had not been easy for him and that literally thousands and thousands of people had urged him to stay on the ticket.

While telephones in his office jangled with even more expressions of support, Eagleton signed and sent off his letter of resignation.

"My personal feelings are secondary to the necessity to unify the Democratic party and elect George McGovern president of the United States," the three-paragraph letter said in part.

"I support George McGovern and I'm going to continue working to see him elected president of the United States."

"I therefore resign as vice-presidential candidate on the 1972 Democratic ticket."

Meantime Eagleton announced that he will seek re-election to the Senate from Missouri in 1974.

"I'm not bitter; I'm not going to get bitter," Eagleton said on a CBS television show. He made the comment when asked his reaction to his announcement Monday night that he was withdrawing as McGovern's running mate.

He said McGovern, the party's presidential "could not have been finer. But, Eagleton said, he was "troubled momentarily" by "one or two members of Sen. McGovern's staff who were doing more backgrounding than they should have been doing."

He said they were "too busy backgrounding reporters that Eagleton should get off the ticket." He did not name the staff members.

"I'm absolutely satisfied about my health ... the last six years I've been sound as a dollar. I have every confidence in my health and my capacity."

As for his political future, he said, "Time will only tell." Then he announced, "I'm going to run for re-election in 1974. I'll give you a scoop on that. I'm going to run."

He also said he had not been promised any position in the McGovern administration should the South Dakota senator defeat President Nixon in the November election.

Eagleton said he knew support for his position on the ticket was waning Saturday night when, in South Dakota, "McGovern table-hopped, talking with newsmen about the 'Eagleton issue, the Eagleton problem,' whatever you wish to call it ..."

Eagleton, 42, said he agreed to withdraw from the race only at the personal urging of McGovern.

Eagleton also appeared on NBC's "Today Show" and said he thought the "man in the street understood" concerning his mental health.

"The people who didn't understand were some of the people who were more sophisticated, such as the editorial pages of The New York Times, The Washington Post and The Los Angeles Times."

He called them "very sophisticated newspapers with excellent editorial staffs, but who seemed to take the position that since I at one time had emotional problems, it forever ... makes me somehow untrustworthy."

But Eagleton said he had "no quarrel with the press," explaining that the issue was "right to be raised, the public had a right know, a right to legitimate inquiry, since 'that fellow' will be a heartbeat away from the presidency."

The senator appeared serious, but relaxed on both programs, and even made a few jokes. When asked at one point about his future plans, he said, "Well, I'm not going to go around the country giving lectures on mental health."

He also said the "toughest question of all" concerned the reaction of his 13-year-old son. He said the boy, who was at summer camp, was an "impressible youngster" and "somebody in camp might say something nasty to him about me, that does worry me."

Anderson's Retraction Unqualified

WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist Jack Anderson today retracted his claim to have located evidence that Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton has a record of arrests for drunken and reckless driving.

Anderson said his retraction was "unqualified" and "in total."

He announced the retraction at an informal news conference outside Eagleton's office after talking for about half an hour in private with the Missouri Senator, who resigned formally today as the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

Eagleton, who originally labeled Anderson's charge a "damnable lie" after the columnist broadcast it last Thursday, today commended Anderson for courage and called him a "distinguished journalist."

Eagleton said he was satisfied with Anderson's retraction. "The book is closed as far as I'm concerned."

Anderson originally said he had located photocopies of records showing Eagleton had been arrested a half dozen times in the 1960s for drunken or reckless driving.

Later, Anderson said he hadn't seen these records but had only been told about them by a "former high Missouri official," later identified as True Davis.

McGovern Try Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today defeated a move by Sen. George McGovern to cut future Pentagon spending by $4 billion, a prime issue in his Democratic presidential campaign.

The vote was 59 to 33.

Opponents of the amendment such as Sens. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, said the South Dakotan's move was a "meat-and-potatoes" approach endangering national security.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., a supporter, said, "Why shouldn't the Pentagon make tough choices like everyone else?"

McGovern himself said the "serious national security question" involves not defense, but schools, health care, crime, and the confidence of the American people in their government.

In a half-hour speech on his amendment to the $20.5-billion Pentagon procurement bill, McGovern said, "Our people are alert to threats from abroad. But they are equally concerned with the deterioration of our society from within."

"They see decaying cities, wasted air and water, rampant crime, crumbling housing and failing transportation," he said.

In the bill, McGovern said, there is money "to underwrite astounding bureaucratic incompetence" that has led in recent years to overruns of $28.7 billion in 77 weapons programs in recent years.

"There are funds for a galloping new race in strategic arms," he said, when the United States has enough nuclear warheads to reduce Russian and Chinese targets to "ashes 20 times over."

Other Senate debate concerned a move to raise military-retirement benefits and a restaging of last year's fight to end the draft. Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., revived that argument by introducing an amendment to end the draft Dec. 31.

Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., planned to argue today for his amendment to end U.S. bombing of North Vietnam. The intent, he said, is to prevent bombing of the North Vietnamese dikes. The administration denies that dikes have been struck intentionally.

Tunney said he would not offer his amendment for a vote until Wednesday, and only then if troop-withdrawal amendments fail.

McGovern's measure jibes with the Pentagon-spending views he has outlined in a campaign position paper which recommends cutting the Defense budget to $53 billion annually and scrapping such major programs as the B1 bomber and the Safeguard ABM missile.

for the nation because its citizens have been denied that potential service," Hearnes said.

Eagleton, Hearnes said, "played the part of a good soldier," in stepping down, and Hearnes predicted Eagleton would be re-elected to the Senate two years from now.

"I think this is the end of McGovern's credibility," said Delton Houtchens, state party chairman. "As far as I'm concerned McGovern and Jean Westwood (new national chairmanwoman) can take care of their own problems in Missouri."

"My money will not go to them nor will my time and effort."

Houtchens said McGovern probably will get very little support in Missouri, which has 17 electoral votes. About 65 per cent of the state's population of 4½ million are Democrats.

"I think Tom Eagleton was shabbily treated," he concluded.

James Kirkpatrick, Missouri secretary of state, said, "I think it's going to prove unfortunate for McGovern."

Kirkpatrick said he thought the removal was because of the story by columnist Jack Anderson that Eagleton had been arrested several times for driving while intoxicated when he was state attorney general.

Kennedy, O'Brien?

Seeking Candidate From Among Eight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The search for a new Democratic vice-presidential candidate centers on eight men following Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's precedent-setting withdrawal from the ticket.

Unable to convince presidential candidate George McGovern that the issue of Eagleton's history as a psychiatric patient would go away, the Missouri senator sadly stepped down Monday night and cleared the way for McGovern to look for a new running-mate.

Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, former Democratic National Committee Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine head most speculators' lists of likely replacements for Eagleton, who became the first man in American history to give up a major party's nomination for vice president.

But Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, R-Sargent Shriver, former director of the Peace Corps, and McGovern's close Senate friends Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut and Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin are also major possibilities.

And in Atlanta, Georgia State Rep. Julian Bond, a leader in the "Blacks for McGovern" campaign, quoted a high-placed McGovern aide as saying Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter is being considered to replace Eagleton.

McGovern's first choice to fill the vacancy may still be Edward M. Kennedy. The Massachusetts senator has steadfastly disavowed any interest in running for national office this year.

But, following Eagleton's dramatic withdrawal Monday, McGovern could well go to Kennedy and argue that his chances have been damaged by the Eagleton affair and only a Kennedy on the ticket could preserve the Democrats' chances of beating President Nixon in November.

McGovern has promised to make his preference known within a few days and conceivably could do it on a nationwide television broadcast he has scheduled tonight. However, McGovern aides say he will "talk about the campaign" and not discuss a replacement for Eagleton.

Whoever McGovern selects will require approval of the newly constituted 303-member Democratic National Committee.

Eagleton went before the hot lights of a Monday night news conference to grimly announce he was withdrawing his candidacy.

"My personal feelings are secondary to the necessity to unify the Democratic party and elect George McGovern," the Missouri senator said.

Attempt Gun Link at Bremer Trial

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP)—The state attempted today at the trial of Arthur H. Bremer to link a .38-caliber revolver found at the scene with the bullets which wounded Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and three other persons.

The effort by State's Atty. Arthur A. Marshall Jr. was slowed by late witnesses and adverse rulings from Judge Ralph W. Powers on the second morning of Bremer's trial.

The 21-year-old former busboy from Milwaukee, Wis., has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to 17 charges arising from the shooting at the Laurel shopping center May 15 following a Wallace rally.

Marshall elicited testimony to show police did not use the kind of hand-cast bullets recovered from the shooting victims and introduced them as evidence.

The testimony about the type of ammunition used by police came from Lieut. Col. W.D. Sellner of the Prince Georges County Police, but Marshall was thwarted in getting further testimony from him when Judge Powers sustained a series of defense objections.

Dr. Joseph Schanno, who treated Wallace following the shooting, testified that "the governor has made a fairly good recovery" and that some sensation has returned to his legs.

"There's an over 90 per cent chance he will not walk again without the aid of mechanical braces," Schanno said.

Marshall began the morning where he had left off the previous afternoon, trying to link Bremer to the gun found at the scene and the gun to the bullets removed from the victims.

He succeeded Monday in having Bremer identified by two witnesses to the assassination attempt as the man who wounded the Alabama governor.

Three other witnesses to the shooting failed to make a courtroom identification.

The two witnesses who identified Bremer walked into the spectators' section of the Circuit Court trial room at Monday's opening session to indicate with a tap on Bremer's shoulder that he was the man they had seen point a gun at Wallace.

Bremer was seated on the fourth row between two sheriff's deputies and was dressed in civilian clothes. His hair was somewhat longer than the last time he was seen publicly and he was wearing a new beard. He did not acknowledge the identification.

No Decision Yet On When Work Will Be Resumed

The Pittsburgh Corning Corp. here still has not decided when most of its 150 hourly employees will be able to go back to work, a plant spokesman said Monday.

Presently about 20 per cent of the hourly work force remains on the job. The company temporarily suspended operations July 21.

According to Clem Ball, works engineer, an inventory buildup caused the temporary lay-off. Products, stockpiled in buildings on the Missouri State Fairgrounds, were moved to the plant site in early July. Ball said these products now are being shipped and the excessive inventory is being reduced.

He also indicated that the plant had planned to suspend operations for three or four days in August in order to change glasses used in the melting process. The substitute glass will reportedly emit fewer pollutants than the type previously used.

The glass changeover was caused by a decision from the Missouri Air Conservation Commission that the company control its fume density by either using fewer pollutants or by installing anti-pollution devices.

According to police, a 1963 stationwagon owned by Flavell J. Butts, Camdenton, was recovered by their department around 12:30 p.m. Monday in the 800 block of South Beacon. Police told The Democrat-Capital the auto was stolen in Camdenton Wednesday.

An auto owned by Betty Kilgus, LaMonte, was taken from the SFCC parking lot Thursday and was recovered in Groom, Tex., Sunday, according to police. The car was found on a street with its motor running, according to police.

Supplies Dwindle In Strike

LONDON (AP) — The British dock strike began nibbling at the nation's supplies of fresh fruit today.

With the stoppage by 42,000 longshoremen entering its second week and no settlement in sight, merchants said there may be no bananas in the stores by the end of the week.

Dealers in the Covent Garden market said they expected supplies of apples, oranges, lemons, peaches and plums to run out by Thursday or soon afterward.

Meat supplies were not yet affected seriously, although New Zealand lamb increased slightly in price.

It was feared that great amounts of perishables would rot in the harbors. Cargoes of 600 ships made idle by the strike included 60,000 crates of citrus fruit, mainly oranges, 11,000 tons of grapes, 7,000 tons of bananas and 600 tons of Australian apples.

Prime Minister Edward Heath called his Cabinet into session today to consider the timing of a declaration of national emergency. It was not thought to be imminent as essential food supplies were still sufficient. But it was believed that if there was no sign within a week of the strike ending, an emergency would be proclaimed so the army could be used to unload food ships.

Concession Stand Target of Thieves

Thieves broke into a concession stand at Liberty Park between 2:30 and 4:30 a.m. Monday and took about $40 in coins from two pinball machines, three boxes of gum valued at $3.75 and a carton of cigarettes valued at $3.43.

Police said entry was gained by cutting a screen on the west side of the building. William C. Templeton, 916 South Moniteau, reported the theft of a 16-inch green and orange girl's bicycle from the Safeway Store parking lot, Broadway and Ohio, at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Burl Brown, 1017 South Massachusetts, reported the theft of a black 24-inch boy's bicycle from his residence Monday morning.

Manila Flooding Disaster

MANILA (AP) — Fed by incessant monsoon rains, flood waters swept back over much of Luzon Island and the greater Manila area today. It was the worst natural disaster in Philippine history.

Ninety per cent of Manila was reported flooded and about 80 per cent of the labor force did not report for work.

Three more deaths, including one from cholera in Pampanga Province, brought the unofficial toll to 308 since July 6. Much of 14 provinces was under water, and at least 2 million persons were affected.

The National Disaster Coordinating Center said the floods were worse than those last month; the waters had begun to recede when new monsoons came.

Persons in Pampanga, north of Manila, had to climb trees to escape drowning.

The Weather Bureau said a low pressure area 120 miles south of Guam threatened Luzon with more rain for the next 48 hours.

Officials appealed to the U.S. government not to withdraw 14 U.S. Marine helicopters from the carrier Tripoli which have been flying daily relief flights since July 22. The carrier and its helicopters had been scheduled to stay no more than a week, and the helicopters were reported overdue for maintenance in Okinawa.

The helicopters from the Tripoli together with U.S. Air Force and Navy helicopters from the Clark and Subic Bay bases have delivered more than 1,000 tons of goods to flood victims in the past 10 days, a spokesman said.

Hughesville Bond Issue To Voters

(Democrat-Capital Service)

HUGHESVILLE — Residents here will go to the polls today to vote on a two-proposal, $116,500 bond issue which, if approved, would finance a new sewage system, Mrs. Madeline M. Tegtmeier, city clerk, said.

The first proposal calls for the issuance of $4,000 in general obligation bonds. The second proposal calls for the issuance of $112,500 in revenue bonds, $15,000 of which would be used to retire current outstanding waterworks bonds.

If the bond proposals are approved, the community would be authorized to levy and collect an annual tax to retire the bonds.

Hughesville does not presently have a sewage system.

Woman Is X-rayed Following Accident

A two-car accident at Broadway and State Fair Boulevard about 11:30 a.m. Monday sent Mrs. Patricia Miller, 37, 1104 East Fifth, to Bothwell Hospital.

According to police, a 1970 Mercury, driven by James Thompson, 1525 East Sixth, who was attempting to turn north on State Fair Boulevard from Broadway, collided with the westbound Miller auto.

According to a Bothwell Hospital spokesman, Mrs. Miller was X-rayed and released.

Candidate Arguments Revived

WASHINGTON (AP) — Echoes of once-settled procedural arguments loom before the Democratic National Committee as it sets out to choose a replacement for Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton as the vice-presidential nominee.

The solution, too, probably will have a familiar ring with the committee expected to ratify the choice made known by presidential candidate George McGovern.

Prior to the party's national convention, arguments droned on for days as competing delegations fought for the right to be seated, but in most disputes, McGovern's wishes prevailed.

Now, as the committee prepared to replay the convention in miniature, new rules governing selection of committee members have led to the same sort of seating challenges.

Adding to the sense of deja vu, the number of members eligible to vote has surfaced as a key question in the committee as it was at one point during the convention.

Eagleton's withdrawal Monday night, an unprecedented move prompted by the pressure stemming from his disclosure of psychiatric treatment on three occasions between 1960 and 1966, left the task of filling out the ticket to the revamped and somewhat confused national committee.

The complications arise from the new national committee structure formulated by the convention last month in Miami Beach. Yet this new-style committee must function under earlier rules tailored to the old committee.

Convention rules provide that in the event of a vacancy, the national committee is authorized to select the replacement "by a majority of the total number of votes provided at the convention."

This means that representatives of each state would cast proxy votes to total 3,016, same as the convention total.

But the new formula adds a lot of extra members to a committee once composed of one man and one woman from each state, territory and the District of Columbia.

probably a lot of people in high places who need psychiatric care a lot worse than he did, but they don't have the sense or are too proud. At least he (Eagleton) was smart enough to get treatment when he felt he needed it. There's certainly nothing wrong with that."

Bob Behen, 230 South Moniteau, agreed the uproar over Eagleton's medical background was unfortunate but added he felt it was to be expected.

"They say if you want to find out about yourself, go into politics. I believe it now," he said.

Sharon Liebi, 1816 East 15th, although leaning toward President Nixon, also was sympathetic toward Eagleton.

"I think it was a mistake on McGovern's part ... it makes him seem wishy-washy," she said.

Expressing the same feeling was Rod Beamish, Route 1, who said, "I feel sorry for the guy ... I think he was railroaded out of the nomination."

Role In Bombing Denied

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Irish Republican Army denied today that it set the bombs that killed six persons and wounded more than 30 in a village near Londonderry Monday, but it vowed to retaliate for the British Army's occupation of Catholic enclaves.

Officials of the IRA's Provisional Wing charged in Dublin that the three bombs that wrecked the main street of Claudy were planted by British troops to divert attention from their invasion of the long-barricaded "no-go" areas Monday.

Although the guerrillas put up almost no resistance to the invading troops on Monday, "our men are still in town," IRA leader Barney McFadden told a meeting in Londonderry's Bogside.

"They will stay here and take a greater toll when the time and opportunity come," McFadden warned. "Everything is going according to plan."

"Wait until they are leaving the area, and they will see if it is so easy," said Bernadette Devlin, the young Catholic member of the British Parliament from Northern Ireland. "The day will come when those barricades will be built again, stone by stone, brick by brick."

The soldiers appeared preparing for a long stay in the Catholic ghettos. Temporary quarters were established in schools and some unoccupied houses. Construction of new bases was started.

Ransom Record Reached

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A team of airplane hijackers headed for Algeria today with the largest ransom ever reported paid to air pirates in the United States—$1 million.

An international record was set last February, when the West German government paid a $5 million ransom to three Arab hijackers of a Lufthansa airliner.

The largest amount ever reported extorted in the United States before Monday was a little more than $600,000 paid to two hijackers in Philadelphia after they commandeered a National Airlines jet as it approached New York. The pair surrendered the next day and the FBI said all of the money was recovered.

Hijackers have demanded $500,000 on at least four occasions.

With the possible exception of "D.B. Cooper," who bailed out of a Boeing 727 with $200,000 somewhere between Reno and Seattle and vanished, hijacking extortionists have not succeeded in making good their escape and keeping the money.

Apprehend Youths

Three youths who walked away from a half-way house of the Missouri State Training School for Boys in Booneville were apprehended by Sedalia police Monday afternoon.

The boys, two aged 14 and one 12, from Sedalia, Carrollton and Bismark, had been missing from the half-way house since Sunday. They were apprehended along South Limit by Sgt. William N. Raines and officer Glenn Baker.

Police officials told The Democrat-Capital all three boys were turned over to Juvenile Officer J. W. Newland, who authorized their return to officials of the half-way house.

Polly's Pointers

How to Replace Toy Stuffing

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Lillian wanted to know what to do with cotton-filled toys that are lumpy after being washed. She should open a seam large enough to pull out the cotton and replace it with nylon stockings or any shredded nylon material she may have around the house, such as old slippers. It is not hard and anyone can do it. — MRS. W. G.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — Both my husband and my daughter have hay fever and allergies so paint fumes bother them. But the house does have to be painted occasionally and I would like to know how to kill these fumes in the house. I would like any suggestions and also some pointers as to ways to prevent mildew from forming on walls. I have tried many remedies but with no success. — MRS. R. G.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the manufacturers of quilted ski jackets for children. Once a child has to wear a size 7 it is impossible to find waterproof snow pants with these jackets. Such pants are not only useful for wearing in the snow to keep slacks dry but are nice on any cold brisk days to keep the legs warm. What can we do to get these manufacturers to make snow pants larger than size 6? — MRS. D. M.

DEAR POLLY — Vera can remove the tinfoil from glass by working cooking oil down between the two, let it stay for 10 minutes or so and then the foil will peel right off. It is hard to get the oil down between the two but just keep trying as it is well worth the trouble. — MRS. S.M.

Local Businesswomen Attend National BPW Convention

Mrs. G. A. Boyd, 912 South Barrett; Mrs. Russell Glenn, 2021 South Grand; and Mrs. Richen Price, 900 Ruth Ann Drive, were among 3,000 career women representing every state plus the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands who attended the 53rd annual convention of The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., July 23 through 27 at Atlantic City, N.J.

The convention keynote was Miss Lisa Sergio of Washington, D. C., nationally known lecturer and author, who spoke on "New Dimensions for Feminism." The Sedalia Club members heard Miss Sergio urge women to bridge the differences in social, economic and political life. In her address, Miss Sergio emphasized the importance of accepting the new opportunities now available to women.

The convention focused direct attention on how women can help women and what can be done to assist states to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA). BPW's legislative priority.

Delegates and members heard speeches by key national figures on subjects of vital concern to the nation's employed women. In "Speaking Out," Congresswoman Martha Griffiths (D-Mich.) encouraged women to play a more active and meaningful role in the political process. Mrs. Jayne Baker Spain of Washington, D. C., vice chairman of the Civil Service Commission, highlighted the importance of "Women Helping Women."

The major role of women as consumers was discussed by Mrs. Julia Montgomery Walsh of Washington, D. C., member of the Board of the American Stock Exchange, in her talk, "Buying and Investing Wisely." Dr. Paul Stephen Ello of Centerville, Va., associate professor at Georgetown University talked on "The Art of Motivation."

Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Glenn, and Mrs. Price participated in business meetings, workshops, passage of the 1972-1973 B.P.W. Legislative Platform, and the election of new 1972-1973 national officers. Mrs. Price, second vice president of the Missouri Federation, also served on the floor tellers committee.

Miss Osta Underwood of Nashville, Tenn., served as the chief presiding officer at the convention where she culminated term as National President for 1971-1972. Mrs.

Jeanne C. Square, Berea, Ohio, took office as National President for 1972-1973 at the closing ceremonies on July 27.

Miss Underwood told delegates: "It is interesting to note that the National Federation formally endorsed the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) at its convention in Atlantic City in 1935. Since then there has been a march of progress for women. The U.S. Congress successfully passed ERA in March and sent this legislation to the states for ratification. I am very happy and proud to say that we have reached the halfway mark — 20 states have already ratified ERA. The pendulum is swinging in women's favor. It's about time."

Beef Pie

Summer Supper Treat

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

A meat pie fits the vacation eating schedule quite well and offers a variation on broiled hamburgers or frankfurters. A cheese and tomato beef pie also helps stretch the budget. For those who want a shortcut in making this piecrust, use a frozen pastry shell. Into this goes a mixture of lean ground beef, tomato soup, herbs, onion and green pepper topped with wedges of tomato and grated Cheddar cheese. Serve with a salad and fresh fruit for dessert.

CHEESE-TOMATO BEEF PIE

- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 pound lean ground beef
- 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
- 1 (10 1/2-ounce) can condensed tomato soup
- 1/2 cup bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons instant minced onion
- 1 egg
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon basil
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
- 1 large tomato

Cook green pepper lightly in oil. Add beef, cooking until browned. Combine with undiluted soup, bread crumbs, onion, 1/2 cup cheese, beaten egg and seasonings. Turn into pastry shell. Bake in a 350-degree oven about 30 minutes.

Remove from oven and arrange tomato, cut in wedges over top. Sprinkle with remaining 1/2 cup cheese. Return to oven and bake 3 minutes longer until cheese melts. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Schramm, Badaracco for second shots

Among candidates seeking the Democratic nomination as lieutenant governor, Rep. Jack J. Schramm stands out as the top choice.

Although the duties of the lieutenant governor are limited by the Constitution to serving as chief executive in the absence of the governor and presiding over the Senate, an aggressive and innovative officeholder can have great influence. Jack Schramm has promised to be that kind of lieutenant governor.

A member of the House since 1964, Schramm is one of a growing number of activist "new breed" legislators who are transforming the business of state government into a more professional operation. Schramm was elected "Outstanding First-Term Democrat" by his House colleagues of both parties, and is the recipient of numerous other awards and citations, notably in the area of legal and judicial work.

Schramm has sponsored legislation in the areas of governmental reorganization, pollution control, tax and constitutional revision. He is a man who does his homework, and practices his motto of "conscientious problem solving first, politics second."

The Democrat-Capital thinks Schramm is the clear choice over his two top contenders, House Speaker James E. Godfrey and James P. Aylward Jr.

On the Republican side, Joseph L. Badaracco in our opinion is the strongest candidate for the nomination as lieutenant governor. Badaracco is the twice-elected president of the St. Louis Board of Aldermen, being the only Republican to carry St. Louis in more than 20 years.

Badaracco has long been involved in both government and civic affairs in Missouri's largest city, all of which would qualify him for lieutenant governor. His strength in St. Louis, along with his experience and maturity, would make Badaracco the strongest running mate for State Auditor Christopher "Kit" Bond, who appears to have the Republican gubernatorial nomination sewed up.

BERRY'S WORLD

"The new international road sign system is going to work out much better than the old. Now I won't have to stop and think which is my right and which is my left!"

Bioassat
House.

Whereupon Sen. Barry Goldwater, in naming New York Rep. William Miller as his running mate less than a year later, seemed to offer in explanation only this: "He gives Lyndon Johnson fits."

And Johnson himself, picking Sen. Hubert Humphrey, was reported to be less concerned with Humphrey's established talent and experience than with heavy pressures from the Democratic party's liberal wing.

Humphrey's 1968 choice, Sen. Edmund Muskie, came out of a typical pressure-cooker situation, with the bleary-eyed presidential nominee and his bleary-eyed advisers hastily weighing prospects. At the time, Muskie seemed a wise selection. But his faltering response to the demands of the 1972 campaign raised grave doubts.

President Nixon in 1968 did in fact take more time in choosing. He had sifted names for weeks, and had actually chosen Spiro Agnew at least 10 days before the Republican convention at Miami Beach.

Yet, curiously, he felt it necessary to go through the accepted charade of appearing to choose his men by listening to volumes of last-minute advice.

Furthermore, Nixon's judgment was heavily political. Agnew was seen as a "bridge candidate," a man with a northern urban background but bearing a conservative strain pleasing to the South. The feeling that George Wallace could not make Agnew a target was not a small consideration.

So now we come to Eagleton, another produce of high-pressure haste, culled from a list of 30 names.

The senator says he might have told Sen. George McGovern of his medical history but that he did not have time to think on that "hectic day." McGovern's campaign manager, Gary Hart, says it took nearly a week to assemble all the details of all Eagleton's record of hospitalization and treatment for nervous exhaustion and fatigue.

These utterances can only be put down as confessions of laxity. Any observer knows that the California delegate credentials challenge put the McGovern forces under great strain in the final days leading to his nomination. But it does not make sense that they did not detach one or two able men to sift out vice presidential names and investigate, with deliberate care, the top choices.

It is a simple fact that the United States government does a vastly more thorough job of investigating the backgrounds of top and even middle echelon personnel for the federal bureaucracy. Some key positions lie vacant literally for months while the checking agencies grind slowly through the records.

By contrast, we seem generally to select men who might be asked to lead the nation with not much more care than some might use in picking a dinner companion.

On the afternoon of July 13, when he was chosen, Thomas Eagleton was only a hazy figure emerging from the fog of a steam bath. There can be no alibis for such fuzzy choosing.

"Sure I Want You, But Don't Let Go the Other Hand!"

Merry-go-round

Money greases way to a record 'hit'

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Record promoters offer drugs, whiskey, prostitutes, Las Vegas windings, TV sets and autos to get their records on the "top 45" rating charts. But hard cash remains the favorite payola medium.

As evidence, here's the anatomy of a typical payola case from our six-month-long investigation.

Rebel Recording, a bold and brassy Maryland company, has been pushing the record, "The Legend of the Rebel Soldier." It appeared on the rating charts of Tri-State Distributors, Fort Wayne, as one of the "comers" in the country music field.

Such charts are used by broadcasters for choosing records to play. The charts, therefore, can make or break a new record.

Tri-State's owner is Cliff Ayers Ostermeyer, a one-time recording star, who has now gone into the record promotion-distribution business.

Out of the blue, Ostermeyer fired off a letter to Rebel's president, Charles Freeland, about his new hit record. The letter made no bones about how Freeland could keep "The Legend of the Rebel Soldier" on the rating charts.

It would cost, wrote Ostermeyer, "100 promo records" and $100 in cash for "the promo girls."

Working with us, Freeland made a call from our office to Ostermeyer in Nashville to learn whether the payola letter meant what it said. Here is a partial transcript of the telephone call:

Freeland: "We think the thing will go. What would be the fee? $100 and 100 records?"

Ostermeyer: "Yeah."

Freeland: "Where would you be working it?"

Ostermeyer detailed where he would promote the records, then they came back to the cost. The ante had gone up.

Ostermeyer: "That's 100 records in Indiana (Ostermeyer's home office) and 100 in Nashville (The Tennessee branch), oh, and $100 up there and $100 down here. You'll get your money's worth."

Freeland: "Well, we have some money to spend."

Ostermeyer: "It'll cost you some money."

Freeland: "What's the chances of moving it up on the charts if we spend a little more money ...?"

Ostermeyer: "For $100, we put it up in the Top 45. I'd give you a 36 spot (on the Top 45 ratings). Then when Miss Cott from Billboard (a national magazine carrying charts) calls me, then I can back it up."

Freeland: "That would be moving up."

Ostermeyer: "It'll cost you another $100 right away. We'll have to move a client out of that spot."

Freeland: "Where should I send it?"

Ostermeyer: "Send two (hundred dollars) to Tri-State and one (hundred) to Nashville. Get that airmail."

The conversation indicated that the record's rating would be determined not by its popularity with listeners, but by cash on the barrelhead.

Billboard magazine denied that it uses Ostermeyer's charts. And Ostermeyer, confronted with the transcript of his conversation, insisted that money could not buy a record's way onto his Top 45 list. "If I said that, I'm wrong," he told my associate Les Whitten.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield, the nonprofit health insurance groups, secretly cut back on benefits to federal employees at the same time they were clamoring for a whopping rate increase.

The rate boosts will cost the little people at the bottom rungs of government anywhere from $75 million to $95 million in unjustified premiums in 1972 alone.

Blue Cross bigwigs went before the Civil Service Commission in June, 1971, with a request for a 53 per cent increase in the Federal Employees Health Benefit Program. They finally settled for a more modest 22 per cent hike.

About the same time, the Blue Cross official in charge of the federal program, Joseph Harvey, devised a scheme to restrict benefits to government employees, thereby saving Blue Cross and Blue Shield millions.

He outlined his plan in a 35-page memo to his regional officers. The document was never intended to be seen outside the organization, but we have obtained a copy.

Stripped of its technical jargon, the memo calls for a drastic curtailment of such benefits as "diagnostic admissions"; obesity "regardless of secondary complications"; mental health care; private duty nurses; physical therapy or cases consisting primarily of physical therapy."

Most of the federal customers have yet to learn of their reduced benefits. Some government workers ran up thousands of dollars in medical bills before they learned their Blue Cross plan no longer covers the full tab.

Joseph Harvey, the roly-poly, stogie-smoking author of the cutbacks, insists the distraught customers don't know what they're talking about. Blue Cross "wasn't cutting back" on benefits, he told us, but was merely implementing a "cost-control program."

Footnote: Blue Cross officials will be summoned to explain their shenanigans in public next month when Rep. Jerry Waldie, D-Calif., calls them before his House Civil Service subcommittee.

Today's thoughts

The sages and heroes of history are receding from us, and history contracts the record of their deeds into a narrower and narrower page. But time has no power over the name and deeds and words of Jesus Christ. — W. E. Channing, American clergyman.

"And which of you by being anxious can add a cubit to his span of life? If then you are not able to do so small a thing as that, why are you anxious about the rest?" — Luke 12:25, 26.

It has been well said that our anxiety does not empty tomorrow of its sorrows, but only empties today of its strength — Charles Spurgeon, English Baptist preacher.

Postal subsidy wrong

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Forgive me if I wander into a column on the U.S. Postal Service by way of an occasion in Montgomery, Ala., on March 11, 1861. That was the day the Confederate States of America, alas, of beloved memory, adopted their Constitution.

Kilpatrick

It was the finest Constitution ever struck off by the brain and purpose of man. Patterned upon the U.S. version of 1787, it strengthened every weak point of the original model. Among its provisions was a vesting of authority in the Confederate Congress to establish post offices and post routes, with this proviso: "But the expenses of the Post Office Department, after the first day of March in the year of our Lord 1863, shall be paid out of its own revenues."

That was the old sound doctrine, as Southerners are wont to say, and it remains sound doctrine today. Our contemporary Congress recognized the principle when it created the new U.S. Postal Service with a mandate to pay its own way by 1981. While some few subsidies may be justified beyond that time, perhaps for non-profit publications and for the smallest rural newspapers, there ought to be no retreat from the basic proposition: The cost of maintaining the Postal Service should be paid in full by those who use it.

Many of my friends in the publishing business do not accept that proposition. They argue that the national distribution and wide dissemination of newspapers and magazines are vital to a free society — that subsidies for this purpose are not truly subsidies, but rather should be viewed in a class with schools and libraries. They have therefore bitterly resisted the postal rate increases that became effective July 6.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin has become the chief spokesman for the publishers' point of view. The rate increases, he says, "threaten to stifle the free flow of ideas and information and effectively silence some of the most important sources of competing independent journalism and opinions in the country."

Life magazine has sounded the same lament. It sees a "potentially ruinous effect." The proposed increases "could literally drive hundreds of marginal magazines and newspapers out of business." If the increases were passed on to subscribers, "a chain reaction might get under way in which falling circulation would lead to lower quality, thence to a further drop in circulation."

With deference to my apprehensive colleagues, I wonder if their cries of alarm do not drown out a certain lack of confidence in their ability to sell their own product to their own readers. In a maze of overgrown figures, comparing a magazine's net profit to the gross cost of postal increases, we tend to lose track of what we're talking about.

It now costs, on the average, 1.6 cents to mail each copy of the conservative journal, National Review; it publishes 26 times a year. It costs the same thing for the liberal New Republic, which comes out 48 times a year. A year hence, under the new rates, the average cost will go to roughly 1.9 cents, then to 2.2 cents, by 1976 to 2.96 cents. We are talking about pennies.

It is hard to believe that thousands of subscribers to National Review would abandon my beloved friend, Mr. Buckley, rather than pay 35 cents a year more in postage. If New Republic's liberal subscribers would desert in droves, repelled by an increase of 65 cents a year, do we blame the Postal Service? Or the editors? It now costs, on the average, 3.7 cents to mail Foreign Affairs Quarterly. Four years hence, it would cost 6.8 cents. An increase to the subscriber of 12.4 cents a year is not much.

The disseminator of ideas — the little publisher whose plight concerns us all — depends upon the mail, but he depends upon light, heat, water, and telephones also. These are services. No one has proposed they be subsidized. The Confederates had it just about right. As a general proposition, mail service shouldn't be subsidized either.

Current Crusade Is Encouraged by Ann

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you said some nice things about the younger generation — how committed they are, and how concerned. You even used the phrase "better educated than we were at their age." And then you said something about their "idealism and dedication to good causes." I'd like your opinion on the current crusade to "Free Dr. Mudd."

Dr. Mudd is the country physician who, 107 years ago, was sentenced to life imprisonment for setting the broken leg of John Wilkes Booth, the man who shot Abraham Lincoln.

It seems Dr. Mudd's grandson who lives in Saginaw, Michigan, has spent countless hours and thousands of dollars to get his grandfather's reputation cleared up. This "crusade" has been supported by several state and county medical groups but now he wants the President of the United States to sign a statement expunging the blot on the Mudd family name. Kids all over the country have taken up this "cause." Bumper stickers are popping up everywhere. There are "Mudd Clubs" on several campuses and mock trials are being held as practice training for street law.

Wouldn't you think this younger generation, of which you seem to have such a high opinion, could do something better with their time? — Establishment Square

Dear Square: My researchers have delved into this fascinating story and it seems there are 280 descendants of the good country doctor who are unhappy about the way their notorious ancestor was treated. Although he was pardoned by President Andrew Johnson four years after his imprisonment, he was never actually exonerated. It is a matter of record that John Wilkes Booth gave a phony name and wore a false beard and when Dr. Mudd treated the man he had no idea his patient was on the lam.

The following day when news of President Lincoln's assassination became known, Dr. Mudd notified the authorities that he had set a man's leg, and that the man may well have been the person they were looking for. Since all this has been carefully documented it seems grossly unfair that no official exoneration has been made. Dr. Mudd's name is still mud. I say it's high time they gave the innocent victim complete vindication. So fight on, kids!

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I just came home from seeing a movie which was extremely well done, very moving, marvelous acting, but full of violence and bloodshed. It left me deeply shaken.

I was disturbed by the reaction of the audience more than I was by the movie. A great many people laughed out loud during the scenes of violence and death. They also laughed during the sad parts. Why? I can't figure it out. Can you? — Baffled in Binghamton

Dear Bing: Immature people who are unsure of how to react, often laugh. They can't handle deep emotion in the presence of others so they depreciate their feelings by laughing.

In tense situations it is not uncommon to witness laughter — even at funerals. Comedy and tragedy are often divided by a fine line.

Dear Ann Landers: What can I say to a sister who weighs 170 pounds (she's 5'4"), eats like the Russians are in Newark, and says "My husband likes me this way." I'd like a good down-to-earth answer in the paper. — Betty

Dear Betty: Did she ask you to say something? She didn't ask ME, so I'm keeping quiet. You can be sure your sister is unhappy with herself and her remarks are defensive. Be charitable and keep quiet.

On the side of business as Vice-President of Bryant Motor Company in Sedalia, he knows only too well the problems of the small business man. Mr. Ryan is also on the board of directors of the Missouri State Bank of Sedalia.

On the educational side, John Ryan has served on the Board of Regents of Central Missouri State University... and on the Senate's Education Study Commission.

Among his other attributes, our former State Senator has served as Pettis County Recorder of Deeds, served two terms as Pettis County Republican Chairman, is president of the Board of Directors of Buena Vista Nursing Home and a trustee of Wesley Methodist Church in Sedalia.

Sterilization Hard To Undo

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would like some information on tying a woman's tubes. I had this done about seven years ago and I would like to have more children now. Can they be untied? I had about a 15-minute operation. I have had trouble with my stomach ever since I had this done, but every doctor I go to tells me I am healthy.

I was too young to have this done, only 17 years old. I only have one child and I am now married.

Dear Reader — Some specialists in female problems (gynecologists) do reconnect the tubes. Varied success is reported, but even in the best of circumstances you would have only about one chance in four of a successful operation and the ability to get pregnant. Still that is better than no chance. See your obstetrician and ask him to help you get the operation. Sterilization operations should be considered as permanent and no woman should have one unless she is absolutely sure she doesn't want any more children. You are right that 17 is too young for this operation, in most circumstances. The same thing applies to men who have their tubes tied (vasectomy).

Dear Dr. Lamb — Some years ago, my doctor started me taking two thyroid pills a day and told me I would have to take them the rest of my life. At that time I had tests to prove I needed them.

I have continued taking them and feel fine, but other members of my family insist that I shouldn't continue without having more tests to prove I need them. Do you think I should have a test or believe my doctor and just continue taking them?

Dear Reader — Your letter doesn't suggest that members of your family have a medical degree. If they do not, they are incompetent in this area and no matter how well meaning they are, the end result is that they are meddling busy bodies.

Your letter suggests that you are seeing a doctor for this problem and if he thought you needed a new test he would have one done. The fact that you feel fine and are doing well suggests that he must be doing something right. Perhaps that is why you are paying him.

A small amount of thyroid, even in a person with a normal gland, usually will not cause any harm. The normal thyroid gland just produces less hormone to balance things out.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Would you kindly explain what bilateral nephropathy is and tell me if anything can be done to relieve the pain.

Dear Reader — A fancy name for dropped kidneys. When a person with this problem stands upright, the kidneys fall, kinking the ureter tube that drains the kidney and causing pain. If the condition is serious and causing symptoms, it is sometimes necessary to have an operation to tack the kidney in place so it won't fall. If the condition is not causing symptoms it is often left alone. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

It's a comfortable, 6-cylinder American compact that's actually priced below the Volkswagen 113.

If you can afford a Volkswagen 113 — or almost any little import — you can afford a Maverick. Look:

FORD MAVERICK	2-door	6-cylinder	$2,140.*
VW 113 (Super Beetle)	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,159.*
TOYOTA COROLLA 1600	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,109.*
DATSUN PL 510	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,306.*

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for 2-door models. Excludes dealer preparation charges if any, destination charges, title and taxes.

NOTE: People ask us how we can afford to offer a roomy, 6-cylinder compact at about the same price as the little imports.

First, we've been making small cars since 1908. Experience helps.

Second, we haven't changed Maverick — except for mechanical improvements — since we first introduced it. That kind of continuity helps to control costs.

Third, recent currency revaluations and devaluations have helped restore the competitive stance of American manufacturers.

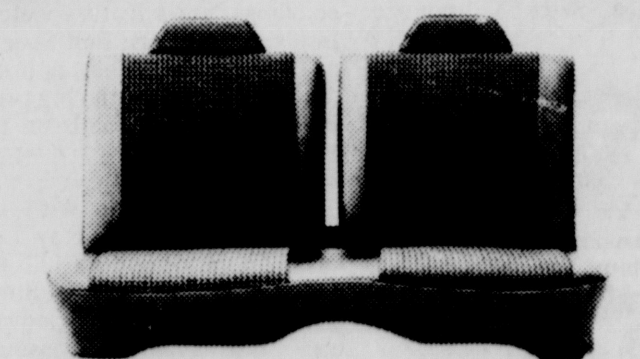

Most little imports give you 4-cylinder engines. Maverick gives you a 6-cylinder engine.

It's smooth. It's reliable. It lets you accelerate into turnpike traffic with confidence and hold your own on steep hills. And it delivers surprisingly good gas mileage.

A good car for long trips.

Maverick's rear track is 2.9" wider than Volkswagen's. Its wheel-base is 7.7" longer. There's a bit more weight, too. By themselves, these differences aren't very big — but they can add up to a big difference in the way Maverick drives and handles the open road.

Better idea for safety... buckle up!

Ample room inside.

Maverick's front seat, for example: over 8" more shoulder room than Volkswagen 113.

There's no wasted space inside Maverick. At the same time, none of that small-car crowded feeling.

Maintenance: Even simpler, more convenient than the little imports.

VW, for example, recommends normal service every 3000 miles or three months, whichever comes first. On Maverick, it's 6000 miles or six months. So Maverick's recommended service interval is twice as long as Volkswagen's.

We also designed Maverick to be a simple machine to care for. In fact, we've even prepared a manual which tells you how to do many maintenance jobs yourself.

One more convenience: there are over 5,600 Ford dealers in the country. VW has about 1,100.

FORD MAVERICK

It may just be the best car value in America today.

Trevino Favored

Tab Nicklaus 'Underdog'

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus placed himself in the unfamiliar but relatively comfortable position of underdog while grinning Lee Trevino stood ready, willing and able to take the role of favorite in the PGA national championship.

Nicklaus, easily the dominant figure in the game this year, continued to insist "I'm going in as an underdog," when he made a late arrival at the Oakland Hills Country Club course Monday afternoon.

He's coming off minor surgery on a badly infected right index finger — the tip of the finger still is swathed in two layers of bandages — that forced him to withdraw from last week's National Team championship at Ligonier, Pa.

It's also forced the Golden Bear to forego his usual regimen of lengthy, meticulous practice and preparation for any national championship.

He said he hit some practice balls last Saturday, played nine holes with his son and some friends Sunday, then played 18 holes on the beautifully conditioned 7,054-yard, par-70 Oakland Hills layout after seeing a doctor on Monday.

"I didn't keep score," Nicklaus said, "but it was somewhere around par."

Nicklaus is the season's leading money winner with some $186,000. He won the Masters, the U.S. Open and two other titles in a relatively restricted program this year. He's defending his PGA title he won some 18 months ago in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla.

In his 10 years as a pro he's accumulated almost every honor the game can offer. He recently matched the late Bobby Jones' record of 13 major titles.

Nicklaus' last tournament appearance was in the British Open, where Trevino destroyed his glory dream of a pro golf's

Grand Slam with a miracle finish that brought a one-stroke victory for the Super Mex from El Paso, Tex.

Now it's come down to the last of the year's four major championships and Trevino is ready to take up Nicklaus' standard role as favorite.

"You just can't imagine how good I'm hitting the ball," Trevino said after posting a practice round of 65. He and partner Ray Floyd failed to qualify for the final two rounds in last week's team championship and Trevino took advantage of the unexpected extra time to get a head-start on his practice for this event.

Gary Player of South Africa, the muscular little physical fitness faddist, and 42-year-old Arnold Palmer also rank as major contenders in the 72-hole event that gets underway Thursday.

Tanner Compares Allen, Riva Ridge

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — Dick Allen is racing to what Chicago White Sox Manager Chuck Tanner things will be the triple crown in the American League — most home runs and runs batted in and highest average.

Tanner even alluded to horse racing's triple crown to make a point about his first basemen who ran his way into the major league record books Monday against the Minnesota Twins with two inside-the-park home runs.

"He's better than Riva Ridge," Tanner boomed after Allen drove in five runs in an 8-1 White Sox romp. "I think we can win everything. If he gets better than two out of three, that's pretty good."

Riva Ridge was this spring's top 3-year-old with two victories in the three big races — Kentucky Derby, Belmont and Preakness.

Allen's performance Monday shot him into good contention for baseball's three jewels.

His 27 home runs and 77 RBI give Allen runaway leads in those departments, and his .310 batting average is near the best in the league.

"He's the best player in the big leagues," said Tanner. "He can run. He can field. He can hit for average and hit with power."

"I'll take him running the bases over any guy in the American or National League. I'm not talking about being faster, but how he turns the bases. He makes a perfect square."

Allen, obtained in an off-season deal with the Los Angeles Dodgers, made two perfect squares off pitcher Bert Blyleven, 9-14, in the first and fifth innings with the ball still bouncing around the outfield.

The only other player in modern major league history to hit two inside-the-park homers in one game was Ben Chapman of the 1932 New York Yankees. He hit three homers off Detroit pitching in the second game of a doubleheader July 19, 1932, two in play.

"I just swing ... and run," Allen said after his record-tying performance. "I hit some in the other league but I don't remember how many."

JEFFERSON CITY — Mike O'Connor Motors and Mid-State Oil of Jefferson City split in men's independent softball action here Monday night. O'Connors captured the opener, 10-0, behind the pitching of Fran Barker and the hitting of Tom Hunter and John Higgins, who clouted home runs in the opening inning.

Jim Werneke, who went the distance in the night cap and hurled a four-hitter, was the loser as O'Connors was blanked, 2-0.

Ed Drees, former O'Connor hurler, picked up the win.

Werneke and John Fiene picked up Sunday night victories as O'Connors whipped Marshall Dairy Queen in both ends of a twinbill, 7-0 and 11-0.

The wins moved their West Central Missouri Men's Independent Softball League record to 15-1. With two games remaining, O'Connors and Kingsville are tied for first place.

O'Connors has a doubleheader with First National Bank of Clinton in their remaining league tilts.

Thursday night at Housel Park, O'Connors and Houstonia Hamm's meet in a twinbill; the opening game is set for 7:30 p.m.

Monday, O'Connors takes on the winner of the Pilot Grove-Saline County Implement game in district competition at Marshall.

To date, O'Connors has a record of 48-10.

Dick Sutcliffe Eyes IMCA Sprint Title

By BOB DEAVER
Special to the Democrat

It's been 18 years since a Missourian last won the International Motor Contest Association sprint car championship, and it's only fitting that the Missouri State Fair could be the boost to send one of the "Show Me" boys to the top.

With Jerry Blundy, the 1971 IMCA sprint champion and current leader, sidelined following a mishap in early July in Webster City, Iowa, the scramble is on to see who will succeed him. Tops on the list is Dick Sutcliffe.

Sanderson, Blazers Reach 'Verbal Pact'

BOSTON (AP) — Derek Sanderson, the rugged, mod center for the National Hockey League champion Boston Bruins has found a new home — and a bigger paycheck.

Sanderson and the Philadelphia Blazers of the new World Hockey Association "reached an agreement" late Monday night on a $2.6-million, five-year contract, which his attorney Bob Woolf says "will make Sanderson the highest paid athlete in America."

Woolf said early today that no contract actually had been signed, but that Sanderson and Blazers' president Jim Cooper had reached a "verbal agreement."

A source in Philadelphia said the signing would take place in Philadelphia, probably Wednesday. Sanderson could not be reached.

The Greenwood, Mo., speedster finished second to Blundy in last year's point chase and now is returning to form after a pile up in May on the Mid-America Fairgrounds loop in Topeka, Kan. It cost Sutcliffe a stay in the hospital, a badly damaged racer and a dive to ninth place in the point standings, but a feature victory in his rebuilt Corn Belt Special at Grand Island, Neb., is proof that he's ready for the big prize money and point totals on the Fairgrounds' oval.

Other Missourians with an eye on the title are Ray Lee Goodwin and Ralph Parkinson, Jr., Kansas City, and Steve Shultz, Chillicothe. Goodwin was last year's Missouri Futurity winner and is holding down second place in the standings to date. Shultz, the 1971 Missouri modified champion, is in eighth place, while Parkinson is 11th.

"The 1972 IMCA sprint car division is in the healthiest condition of any time during the last decade and with early season races producing six different winners, the race for the championship is the closest ever," said Wilbert Askew, Secretary of the Missouri State Fair, and member of the IMCA board of directors.

A field of more than 40 cars and drivers will test the Fairgrounds' half-mile circuit the afternoon of Aug. 19 and will return for another afternoon event on Aug. 27, to cover the mile track in the 19th annual 50-lap Missouri Futurity. Racing begins both days at 2:30, with time trials getting under way at 1:00.

Tickets for those two shows, as well as the other five racing events are now on sale at the Missouri State Fairgrounds ticket center, which is located in front of the Administration Building.

Otis' Steal Lifts Nelson

ANAHEIM (AP) — For the second time in as many starts, poor Roger Nelson was looking down the barrel of someone else's no-hitter.

But Poor Roger isn't so poor. For the second time in as many starts, Roger Nelson came away a winner Monday night, firing a three-hitter and striking out nine as the Kansas City Royals edged Nolan Ryan and the California Angels 1-0 on an unearned run in the fourth inning.

At Chicago in his last start Thursday, Nelson broke up a no-hit bid by San Bahnsen with an eighth inning single and the Royals went on to a 3-0 victory.

Ryan held the Royals hitless for seven rounds Monday before Steve Hovley stroked a clean single to center opening up the eighth.

But the biggest play of the night occurred in the fourth when fleet Amos Otis, the Kansas City centerfielder, stole home on a 3-2 pitch with two out.

"If I ever put a steal sign on at a time like that, I'd get arrested for manslaughter," deadpanned Bob Lemon, the KC manager. "I'm glad John Mayberry, the hitter didn't swing. If he had he would have planted Amos into the bleachers."

"I beat myself — what can I say," Ryan wondered aloud after his ninth defeat against 12 victories. His third error of the night — all on pickoff attempts at first base — allowed Otis, who had opened the fourth inning with a walk, to get to second. He went to third on a groundout before his daring theft of home.

"I was trying to get a jump all the time I was at third," Otis said, "but I couldn't. On the 3-2 pitch I got a jump so I took off. I yelled at Mayberry all the way. 'Don't swing, don't swing.'"

Mayberry didn't — taking ball four — and Otis scored with a deft slide.

The loss snapped a five-game Angel winning streak.

"My heart stopped when I saw him break," Lemon said. "I've never seen anybody steal in that situation before."

Nelson was asked when was the last time he had pitched as well.

"Last Thursday, in Chicago," he retorted. "Actually I thought I had better stuff last time. I don't like to strike out so many — it's too tiring. I'd rather let them hit the first pitch."

Namath, Jets Fight Over '72 Contract

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — When he's not running drills and participating in scrimmages on the practice field, quarterback Joe Namath is huddling with New York Jets' management over his contract.

With the Jets' first preseason National Football League game against San Francisco only four days away, Namath still is unsigned, although he has remained in camp. Broadway Joe has participated in the Jets' preseason training regimen but says he will not play in exhibition or regular season games without a contract.

Asked about the negotiations, Jets President Phil Iselin replied: "The hard part is over. We haven't agreed on the money, though."

Several hours later, however, the Jets' public relations staff announced a noon press conference today, saying only, "It will be an item of major importance."

Meanwhile, the Jets said they still had not heard from their No. 1 draft selection, wide receiver Jerome Barkum of Jackson State, and that all attempts to contact him have been unsuccessful.

Elsewhere in pro football, the Minnesota Vikings remained at odds with three of their holdouts—running back Clint Jones, wide receiver Gene Washington and defensive back Charlie West.

Jones and Washington had been scheduled to rejoin the team at its Mankato State camp Monday, but failed to report. West left the Vikings' training site after learning of the new disagreement.

Chuck LaTourette, veteran St. Louis punter, says his medical education is more vital than pro football and has not reported to the Cardinals' Lake Forest, Ill., training camp. However, he said he is willing to play weekends for the NFL minimum of $14,000, far less than the $30,000 he earned last season.

Chiefs Prep For 'Emotional Bears'

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs resumed twice-daily drills to prepare for what Coach Hank Stram calls his team's most emotional opponent of the exhibition season — the Chicago Bears.

The Bears had the bad luck to be the first National Football League team to play Kansas City after it suffered a 35-10 defeat at the hands of the Green Bay Packers in the first Super Bowl.

measure of revenge by whipping the Bears 66-24. Now Kansas City has to worry about Chicago wanting revenge.

"The Bears could be very emotional," Stram said. "They'll be playing their first game under their new coach, Abe Giron, and they'll be playing in Giron's backyard South Bend, Ind."

Saturday's contest will be almost a home game for some Chiefs too. Stram was an assistant at Notre Dame and John Huarte, Heisman Trophy winning quarterback, and linebacker Jim Lynch are Irish alums.

Three Shutouts In Tournament

BLACKBURN — Houstonia, the Sweet Springs Reds and the Sweet Springs Blues posted shutout wins in the opening round of the Tri-County Pee Wee Tournament here Monday night.

Houstonia dropped host Blackburn, 4-0; the Sweet Springs Reds dropped the LaMonte Reds, 3-0, while the Sweet Springs Blues shutout the LaMonte Blues, 4-0.

Wednesday at 7 p.m., the Sweet Springs Reds go against Houstonia in a semifinal game; the winner of that contest will take on the Sweet Springs Blues in Friday's championship tilt.

Weller, Denny Post 2 Wins Each Sunday

Rick Weller out ran Park Denny and Paul Kellner Sunday in the open division of the Devil's Leap Cycle Track. Weller also won the 125cc division feature as well, finishing ahead of Ron Cramer and Ronald Russell.

Denny was a double winner also, capturing the 100cc and 175cc divisions.

Joe Yeager was the victor in the 250cc class.

Rick Riley and Danny Gorski ran one-two in the mini-bike division.

Dick Young and Robin Lessley were the second and third-place finishers in the 100cc division; Randy Turley and Rick Thomas finished behind Denny in the 175cc class, while Pete White and John Kindle captured second and third behind Yeager in the 250cc division.

The next racing event is set for Aug. 13.

Chargers Get Thomas In a Late NFL Trade

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Controversial Duane Thomas, the silent Cowboy, was traded late Monday night by Dallas to the San Diego Chargers in a 2-for-1 National Football League player swap.

The Chargers gave up second-year wide receiver Billy Parks and second-year running back Mike Montgomery.

Thomas, 6-foot-1 and 205 pounds, missed two team meetings and a practice session Monday, and had been fined by the club earlier in the day.

With the acquisition of Thomas, the Chargers then swapped fullback Jeff Queen to the Oakland Raiders for a No. 3 draft choice in 1973.

Then, moments before the midnight interleague trading deadline, the Cowboys sent sixth-year wide receiver Glover Richardson to Oakland for an undisclosed draft choice.

Atlas, Race Tangle for Title

Harley Race will face a solid test as he attempts to retain the Central States wrestling title tonight in the Convention Hall ring in the main event against Omar Atlas.

The Race-Atlas event tops a four-match card, which is scheduled to get underway at 8:30 p.m.

Atlas has defeated Race twice already in recent matches, however, both wins were in non-title events. Race has reportedly turned down repeated requests by Atlas for a title clash, but finally yielded to a lure of $500 posted by Atlas to get the match.

Rufus Jones will meet Nature Boy Kirby in the semifinal event; Chai Yokuchi and Danny Little Bear are paired in the special event.

Steve Bolas and Yasu Fuji are scheduled in the opener.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We aren't going to assess the blame for the slightly unsound slam contract reached by North and South. Why should we? South made it!

South won the trump lead and promptly led his eight of spades. This didn't fool West in the slightest. He had been around for a long time and knew that this immediate spade lead almost surely indicated a singleton. Otherwise, South would not have played it right away.

So West went right up with his ace of spades. He got his spade trick all right but he also gave South the slam.

Later on South was able to discard two clubs on dummy's king and queen of spades and wind up with the 12 tricks he needed.

If West had not suffered from "grasshopper disease" he would simply have covered the eight of spades with his nine and not rushed to take his ace.

The strange thing about this hand is that if South did hold more than one spade there would be no way to beat the slam. South would have one less club or heart. After West ducked the first spade, South would return to his hand; drawing trumps; lead a second spade and get the same two spade tricks he got when the ace was played the first time.

Nixon Decisions Have Drastically Reduced Troops

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of three articles assessing the comparative military strength of the United States, the Soviet Union and their allies in Western Europe.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has conceded Russia a wide lead in ground combat forces by cutting the U.S. Army to its smallest size in nearly a generation.

A drastic Army cutback results from two fundamental decisions by the Nixon administration to:

—Disengage from future overseas involvement of U.S. ground troops, except in defense of Western Europe.

—End the draft next year, if possible, and rely on volunteers to fill the ranks.

Both these Nixon policies, marking a turnaround from traditional post-World War II attitudes, were spurred by widespread reaction against the long Vietnam war.

Adding to concern at the Pentagon is growing Soviet naval and missile capability. The Soviets have been outbuilding the U.S. Navy by a margin of 2 to 1 in recent years and are reported on the verge of a new surge. The missile race also is continuing, despite the new agreement to limit strategic arms.

The emphasis will shift to increased numbers of warheads and their improvement.

If the Democrats win the White House in November, slashes in U.S. combat power—land, sea and air—could bite even deeper.

Military leaders express concern that the pendulum may swing so far that the country might be caught dangerously short if a major emergency should arise.

The Army fell to about 801,000 men in May, lowest since the eve of the Korean War 22 years ago.

Adding the Marine Corps' 196,000 men, the total of U.S. ground combat troops reaches just under 1 million.

That is less than half the 2.2 million Russian soldiers assigned to ground fighting forces.

Because of severe cutbacks—about 340,000 men in the past year alone—only one of seven home-based U.S. Army divisions is in ready-to-go shape. These divisions form the strategic pool from which the United States would draw in a sudden international crisis.

Three of these divisions are earmarked to reinforce the 7th Army in Europe if the Russians should attack or seriously threaten, but it is doubtful they could meet the present requirement to deploy overseas within 30 days.

For the long haul, the Nixon administration is counting on about 700,000 National Guardsmen and Reserves to reinforce the shrinking regular Army and the Marine Corps in time of urgent need. But the Guard and Reserve are having trouble keeping up their strength.

Although Nixon policy is to avoid a further "policeman of the world" mission for U.S. forces, the United States maintains strong commitments to NATO and to South Korea. For that reason, the five U.S. Army divisions assigned to NATO and one division in South Korea have top priority in seasoned manpower and modern equipment.

Europe is the only place where U.S. ground troops directly face the Soviet Army.

There, 185,000 of the U.S. 7th Army form the core of NATO's defense. American armed strength in Europe totals about 300,000, including Air Force, support and other elements.

The plan is for allied forces to join in defending Western Europe against any Soviet-Warsaw Pact thrust.

If all the allies lived up to their commitments, in a crunch they and the United States could muster about 780,000 men in about 26 divisions and equivalents in the first stage.

On the other side, according to U.S. analyses, Russia and her Warsaw pact allies—East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia—would have immediately available about 925,000 men in some 65 divisions. Western divisions are bigger than those in the Soviet bloc.

Stressing armor, the Russians and their allies can send about 14,000 tanks against Western Europe. NATO allies in the central region could counter with about 7,000 tanks, 1,500 of them American.

To offset somewhat the Russian edge in armor, the United States is equipping its units with the new TOW wire-guided antitank missile and will buy another tank-killing weapon called Dragon for its infantry platoons.

The United States is way ahead of the Russians in helicopters. The Army has been experimenting with a new type of division that would combine tanks and missile-firing helicopters to duel Soviet armor.

But, while the Army scored impressively in Vietnam with helicopters as gunships and troop-carriers, there are skeptics who question whether the chopper can live in the European battlefield environment. These skeptics say the Russians would bring sophisticated anti-aircraft missiles into play.

As for tactical air power, it is the judgment of most American specialists that Soviet and Warsaw Pact air forces clearly surpass the NATO allies in the number of planes in the region where battle would be joined. According to one estimate, the Communist bloc enjoys about a 2,900-to-2,100 airplane advantage there.

Geography gives the Russians a huge plus, enabling them to bring major reinforcements from Western Russia.

According to U.S. intelligence, the Soviets have 60 divisions in European Russia, 20 of them in full fighting readiness and the rest near it.

While mobilization could raise allied strength in the central region by several hundred thousand men, important reinforcements would come from the United States. These reinforcements, supplies and equipment would have to travel by air and sea across the Atlantic.

Therefore, a successful U.S. reinforcement would require that allied forces hold the line against Russian armor and motorized infantry until the flow of fresh American troops and materiel could arrive.

It also would require that the U.S. and allied navies check the growing Soviet Navy, whose hundreds of submarines and missile-firing destroyers and cruisers would be going their utmost to sink American supply ships.

About 45 of the Soviet Union's 160 Army divisions have been concentrated along the Chinese border.

But, despite the feud between the Communist giants, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has said, "The capability of Soviet military forces opposite NATO has not been reduced."

Many U.S. military planners believe the only way the allies could stem a major onslaught into Western Europe would be to resort to tactical nuclear weapons.

The planners are far from happy at such a prospect, because they are aware that once tactical nuclear weapons start exploding, there is strong likelihood of escalation into all-out nuclear war.

In any event, the United States has positioned in Western Europe some 7,000 nuclear warheads which would be delivered by about 2,250 fighter bombers, bombardment missiles, and artillery.

The Russians also have formidable tactical nuclear power, including about 700 medium- and intermediate-range ballistic missiles, some 850 tactical surface-to-surface missiles assigned to their ground forces, plus about 1,800 medium and light bombers and fighter-bombers.

Weighing the balance between U.S. and Soviet theater nuclear weapons, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has said,

"I would judge that the U.S. is at least the equal of the Soviet Union and perhaps the superior."

The complex issue of curbing tactical nuclear weapons was sidestepped during the long U.S.-Soviet negotiations that led to a first-stage agreement to limit numbers of strategic arms. It may come up in follow-on talks.

Meanwhile, the United States is trying to overcome the Soviet conventional firepower bulge with better new weapons. And it is encouraging reluctant European allies to upgrade their forces.

Like the other U.S. armed services, the Army has had a rough time with Congress because of cost runaways.

After the Army failed to bring down the price of a proposed new main battle tank from about $650,000 per machine, Congress killed the project.

So the Army is improving its current best tanks, the M60, and it is buying a missile-firing version of the M60.

But the Russians are not standing still either. U.S. officials report they are developing two new tanks and working on new high fragmentation heavy artillery shells.

In over-all tactical airpower Adm. Moorer said, "The Soviets are slowly coming abreast of us."

This development grows out of a combination of a reduction in American jet fighters and other tactical aircraft from 5,800 in 1969 to about 5,000 planned for next year, and a gradual increase in Soviet planes from 3,300 in 1963 to nearly 4,300 now.

U.S. Air Force and Navy chiefs are urging the Pentagon to push hard for the new F14 and F15 fighters, which they argue are essential to controlling the air over land and sea battles.

Moorer claims both the F14 and F15 will be "distinctly superior to any tactical aircraft the Soviets are likely to deploy in the 1970s."

But, as in the case of other weapons, congressional resistance is stiffening because the prices are so high — about $10 million per F15 and $16.8 million for each F14.

Some senators insist that the tried and proven F4 Phantom will be adequate for many years to come and that more could be bought for only about $4 million apiece. But military leaders contend the F4 will be outclassed by advanced Russian fighters.

While this debate grows, the Russians are retiring their older MIG jet fighters and replacing them with new models.

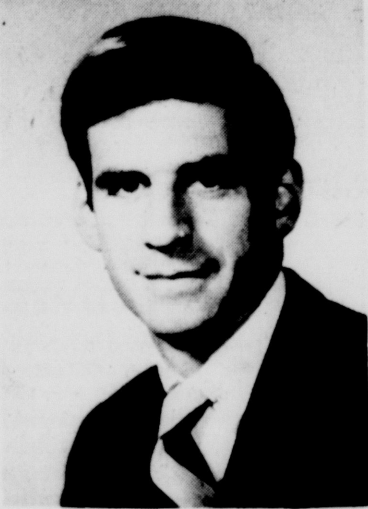

As a result of the Vietnam war, the United States has developed and proved revolutionary new weapons such as laser-guided bombs and perfected devices for foiling enemy radar defenses.

This probably puts the U.S. Air Force and Navy air arm ahead of the Russians in certain significant hardware areas. Next: A comparison of the U.S.-Soviet Navies.

The Primary Election—III

Danforth Seeking Second Term

John C. Danforth

John C. Danforth is seeking his second term as Missouri's attorney general and faces no opposition from his own party in the August primary election. However, two Democrats are looking for the chance to run against him in November.

They are Rep. James E. Spain, D-Bloomfield, a 37-year-old Stoddard County attorney, and Michael Joseph Kennedy, a 65-year-old attorney from Kansas City.

Danforth, whose race for the U.S. Senate two years ago was aborted by a residency question, said, "The most important function of the office (of attorney general) is to provide high quality legal service for the State of Missouri."

"This can best be discharged by hiring the finest legal talent available without regard to political affiliation. The Attorney General's office is now a better law office than it has ever been in the history of Missouri. I want it to remain so in the next four years," he said.

The statement was in response to the following question from the League of Women Voters of Missouri: "What do you consider the most important function of this office, and how would you carry it out?"

He has acted as an assistant prosecuting attorney and is presently the vice chairman of Banks and Financial Institutions Committee of the Missouri House. He was a 1968 delegate to the Democratic Convention.

Danforth was the Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate in 1970 and was a member of the President's Task Force on Prisoner Rehabilitation from 1969 to 1970. Among his campaign promises is one to support a "bill to create a Missouri Bureau of Investigation, a witness immunity bill and a felony conspiracy bill."

Kennedy has had 39 years experience as an attorney and for four years served as trial prosecutor in Jackson County, with another four years spent as magistrate judge, presiding over more than 2,000 criminal cases.

In response to the League question, he said, "The duties and responsibilities of the Attorney General are so many and varied it is difficult to pinpoint the most important function of this office. However, among many there are two that stand out at the present time:

✓ "To command law and order in the streets for the protection and safety of our decent citizens;

✓ "To stamp out the drug that is prevalent everywhere, particularly in our schools, colleges and universities, he said.

Kennedy added that, if nominated, he had a plan to end these practices in the state.

Expansion Discussed At Hospital

Tentative plans for the $1,800,000 Bothwell Hospital expansion program to be completed in 1974, were discussed by Ray Jiedel, administration assistant of the hospital, at noon Monday with members of the Rotary Club at the regular club meeting at Hotel Bothwell.

The current expansion, which Jiedel referred to as phase one of a three part expansion program, is made possible by the sale of six per cent hospital obligation bonds which were approved by the Sedalia City Council earlier this year and which will be retired from hospital income.

The new addition, for which plans and specifications are currently being prepared, will be built to the west of the emergency entrance and will contain a basement with two floors above. It will be 110 feet by 110 feet and will be connected with the present hospital building. Its construction will close the present Thompson Street, which runs from 13th to 15th Streets.

When completed it will provide for needed space for hospital services as well as space for 32 more beds, Jiedel reported.

Following his talk, he fielded questions from his audience concerning the project and the hospital operation.

The speaker was introduced by Robert Phillips, general program chairman.

Charles Hofheins, club president, called on Don Barnes, who presented Everett Wood, Route 2, as a new member of the club. Wood, who fills the club classification of general farmer, comes to Sedalia from Braymer, Mo., where he was connected with the school system, and where he was an officer of the Braymer Rotary Club.

Guests for the meeting introduced by Jess Walthall were: Peter Dominique, Jefferson City, with Ed Mitchell; Donald Conrad, of St. Louis, with John "Bud"

Brown; and Rotarians Jack Carmichael and Jim Postlethwait of Warrensburg.

Dream Shattered

HAYS, Kan. (AP) — Dr. Steven Mosier, Hays veterinarian, and his dreams of someday riding a Kansas-raised ostrich were cut short Monday when he sawed his three-pound ostrich egg in two and found nothing but "rotten, green material."

Mosier's egg had completed its 42-day gestation period plus an added seven days, all in an incubator. Mosier allowed the egg to continue the extra week because it was a week late in beginning to smell bad, which is considered a good sign of a fertilized egg.

Must Show Cause In Residency Cases

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two state legislators from the metropolitan area must show in court this week why they should not be barred from running for reelection for failure to live in their districts.

Rep. Thomas Walsh, D-St. Louis, is to appear Thursday in the court of Circuit Judge Alvin McFarland here. Walsh will answer a suit seeking to remove his name from the August 8 primary.

Rep. Patrick Hickey, D-St. Louis County, must appear Wednesday in the court of Circuit Judge Paul Corning of St. Louis County. Corning issued a preliminary injunction Monday against Hickey's being on the primary ballot.

Voters in Kansas Flocking to Polls

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Nearly a half million Kansas voters were expected to cast ballots today to decide major party nominees for a myriad of elective offices from U.S. senator to county courthouse posts.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. statewide and will close at 7 p.m. in all counties. None of the large counties which have the option of remaining open until 8 p.m. is exercising that prerogative. The expected modest turnout of an estimated 475,000 of the state's 900,000-plus eligible voters was certain to vote most heavily in the Republican primary election.

Republicans were selecting their November general election nominees in the U.S. Senate race, one congressional district race and for governor, lieutenant governor, treasurer and attorney general, as well as for legislative seats, judgeships and county offices.

Democrats had on their ballot races for one congressional district nomination, lieutenant governor and the lesser offices. About 350,000 voters were expected to help decide the Republican nominations.

Unofficial returns are to be tabulated after the polls close in Kansas City, Mo., with results made available as they are reported to the state's news media. The official tabulation will be made by county and state canvassing boards in about two weeks.

Attracting most attention was the battle for the GOP governor nomination.

Four candidates are bidding for the Republican governor nod — former Gov. John Anderson Jr., farm leader Ray Frisbie, state Rep. Morris Kay and Lt. Gov. Reynolds Shultz.

They planned to vote at their local polling places by early this afternoon — Anderson at a rural school near his rural De Soto home, Frisbie at the Farm Bureau building in Manhattan, Kay at the American Legion building in Lawrence and Shultz at an old school building near his rural Jefferson County home north of Lawrence.

All four candidates spent election eve making an 11th-hour appeal for votes in Wichita, the state's largest city.

Judge's Ruling Leaves Questions on Hatch Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — A three-judge panel has cracked open the door to partisan politics by federal employees, but the workers have to wait for a Supreme Court ruling before they cross any campaign thresholds.

In the 2-1 ruling Monday, the panel held that provisions of the Hatch Act which ban partisan politics by federal workers are "impermissibly vague and overbroad," and violate the free-speech clause of the 1st Amendment.

And while the judges said the 2.7 million federal employees should be allowed to engage in partisan politics, they left open just what limits should exist. The court did not touch on the question of whether federal employees may seek elective office.

The court, composed of two federal district judges and an appeals court judge, ordered the U.S. Civil Service Commission to halt enforcement of the provisions. But the decision is being held in abeyance pending a review by the Supreme Court.

In writing the majority opinion, District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said the section of the act challenged in the suit is "ambiguous and unsatisfactory."

Gesell said some kind of check is needed on political activity by federal employees. But of the present checks, he wrote: "There is no standard. No one can read the act and ascertain what it prohibits."

He said the commission acted responsibly in attempting to apply the provisions of the act fairly, but that its efforts were thwarted because the commission "was given no authority under the act to accommodate rigidly incorporated prior rulings to the rapidly evolving court interpretations of the 1st Amendment."

Gesell suggested — but didn't order — that Congress state "with utmost clarity" which areas of political activity are permissible. He was joined in the opinion by Judge Barrington D. Parker.

In dissent, U.S. Appeals Court Judge George E. MacKinnon found no impermissible vagueness and said "the reasonable federal employee is provided an ascertainable standard of conduct that does not impermissibly infringe on his 1st Amendment freedoms."

He said he would have ordered the commission to clarify its rulings.

The suit was lodged against the commission by the National Association of Letter Carriers, a union of postal employees with about 200,000 members, several District of Columbia political committees and a number of individuals.

Monday's ruling does not affect state employees covered by the Hatch Act.

JUST BECAUSE A CAR IS INEXPENSIVE DOESN'T MEAN IT HAS TO LOOK IT.

The Fiat 850 Spider is the lowest priced sports car in America.

If it looks like it costs more, it's because the car was designed by Nuccio Bertone, the same man who designs $20,000 sports cars.

What's more, the 850 Spider has all the things a true sports car is supposed to have.

It has a peppy little engine, built by the largest producer of small high-performance engines in the world, us.

It has front-wheel disc brakes, independent four-wheel suspension, radial tires, electronic tachometer, contour bucket seats and a four-speed fully synchromeshed transmission. But it still gets around 30 miles per gallon of gas and needs very little oil and maintenance.

So, if you're thinking of spending a couple of thousand dollars on a small car, maybe now you'll think of spending it on a small sports car instead.

Beating the Heat

This construction company employee, relegated to traffic duty on a road construction project in Veazie, Me., found a way to keep cool in last week's torrid temperatures. Equipped with a tub, five gallons of water and his "slow" sign, he managed to keep traffic at a slow pace, and keep cool in the process. (UPI)

Inmates Perish In Florida Blaze

STUART, Fla. (AP) — Four youthful inmates were killed when fire swept through a maximum security cellblock at Martin County Jail late Monday night, trapping the victims inside their locked cells, authorities reported today.

Sheriff Robert L. Crowder said preliminary investigation indicated that three of the victims apparently set magazines and mattresses ablaze, then screamed for help when the fire raged out of control.

The fourth victim, the only other prisoner in the upstairs cellblock, was confined in an adjacent cell, the sheriff said.

Crowder identified only one of the dead inmates, Robert Lassett, age 19 or 20, of Indiantown, Fla. Identity of the other three victims was withheld pending notification of relatives. All victims were in their late teens or early 20s, the sheriff said.

Lassett had been jailed on forgery charges, Crowder said.

The sheriff said another victim was charged with auto theft and a third was serving a year's sentence for attempted forgery. The fourth inmate was awaiting transfer to Raiford State Prison after being convicted of second degree murder, he said.

Crowder said smoke from the blaze prevented a jailer from reaching an electrical switch which could have opened the doors in the second floor cellblock.

Q. "Lieutenant Governor? Who cares who wins?"

A. "You should!"

Q. "Why?"

A. "Because now, more than ever before in Missouri's history, we must have a full-time Lieutenant Governor!"

Q. "What do you mean? Hasn't it always been a full-time job?"

A. "Never! Under the Democrats, most of the time the Lieutenant Governors were off practicing law."

Q. "I didn't know that. Well, who will be a full-time Lieutenant Governor?"

A. "Only Bill Phelps. Bill Phelps is the only major candidate who has already given up his law practice. He's ready now to serve you full time!"

Q. "Is that really such a big deal—that full-time stuff?"

A. "Bill Phelps thinks so. He grew up in a small Missouri town. Maybe that's why he thinks the taxpayer should get his money's worth. The lieutenant governor gets paid more than most state officials. Phelps thinks it's wrong for the lieutenant governor to make money practicing law at the same time he's getting paid by the state."

Q. "So, what will Phelps do about it?"

A. "Bill Phelps will work full time. He knows that Missouri must now have a full-time lieutenant governor to solve our many, many problems."

Q. "What problems?"

A. "A complete re-organization of our state government by our new Republican governor. The new governor will need plenty of help getting his programs through the legislature, too. Bill Phelps is the ideal man for that big job."

Q. "How come?"

A. "Because, even though he is only 38, Bill Phelps has served in the legislature for 12 years."

Q. "What kind of a guy is this Phelps? Make it brief..."

A. "Well, Bill Phelps is a six-time Republican winner in a Democratic county. I think he's the one man who can beat the Democrat in November. He can work with any Republican governor. He's a team player, a man the governor will be able to trust."

Reform Touchy, Richardson Says

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Welfare critics who want "all or nothing" reform are jeopardizing chances for any welfare improvements, Elliot Richardson, Secretary of Health Education and Welfare, said Monday.

Richardson was the featured speaker during the second day of the national convention of the Urban League.

Because welfare critics cannot solve all their problems "these people would prefer to sulk in their tents and let nothing be done," he said.

Richardson said the Nixon administration is giving "deeds not rhetoric, performance not promise" in welfare matters. He said federal spending has jumped from $900 million to $2.5 billion for minority assistance and civil rights since Nixon took office.

The Urban League announced the startup of an intensive voter registration drive in 10 moderate-sized cities. Director Vernon E. Jordan Jr. told newsmen the group is trying to bolster black representation in the electoral process.

The cities are Stamford, Conn.; Flint, Mich.; Battle Creek, Mich.; Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Springfield, Ill.; Sacramento, Calif.; New Brunswick, N.J.; Indianapolis, Ind.; and Columbus and Dayton, Ohio.

Both the Democratic and Republican national committees favor the registration drive, Jordan said.

Another speaker, Maj. Gen. J. Milnor Roberts, chief of the U.S. Army Reserve, said more black men are joining units but "the rate of increase must be improved."

Roberts said in 1952 there were 13,414 Negroes in the Army Reserve, 3.9 per cent of the total. Today there are 163,447 reservists, or 8.2 per cent of the total, he said.

"Aside from the monetary rewards and educational benefits service in the Army Reserve offers young members of minority groups an opportunity to improve the quality of American life," Roberts said in an interview.
